Fast-Growing JenCon Builders Acquires SEC General Contractors

JenCon Builders, LLC, a fast-growing Charlotte-based general contractor, has acquired SEC General Contractors. The purchase of SEC is part of the firm's strategic plan for expansion and adds a team well versed in construction of office, retail, and industrial spaces as well as adaptive reuse.

Lead by industry veteran Carroll Jenkins, JenCon Builders, LLC is a full-service contractor serving the Charlotte region for more than 35 years. The firm's resume includes hundreds of successful commercial, retail, and heavy industrial construction projects in addition to extensive commercial concrete work.

"SEC is a perfect fit for JenCon as they share the same values including the view that integrity is everything", said JenCon CEO Carroll Jenkins. "That is why both of our teams have been able to thrive through the ups and downs of this volatile industry and why we have so many repeat customers."

"We have known the JenCon team for years, and have been impressed with the work they do," said Kevan Smith, president of SEC and now part of the JenCon executive team. "JenCon's innovative technologies, expanded team and resources, and ability to self-perform much of its work will be assets to the clients we serve as we work to deliver projects faster and more efficiently."

JenCon will currently have offices in both Charlotte and Monroe with a work force of 30 employees.

Company management includes:

Carroll Jenkins | CEO

Leland Bourque | President

Kevan Smith | Senior Vice President of Business Development

Chris Whitaker | Vice President of Field Operations
